

IKE, CHURCHILL ASK REDUCED ARMAMENTS

Fourth New Government Formed in Guatemala

About Town And Country

By TIMOTHEUS T.

GOURMET DEPT.: The boys had been fishing on the river south of here and they had their families with them to enjoy the repast. Men, women and children were on hand at the cabin to devour a bunch of fine perch that had been hooked.

Preparations were made. One of the fruit jar contained corn meal and one of the fellows took down a jar and rolled the fish well. The hot grease was ready and the fish were dropped in.

One of the other fellows went by in a few minutes and saw the grease bubbling 'way up and looking downright awful. He inquired about the grease and found that it was okay.

Investigation showed, however, that there was a jar of corn meal and a jar of soap powder. The soap powder had been picked up by mistake and the fish got rolled in the detergent.

Instead of fish and all the trimmings the group ate trimmings.

MAYBE you've overlooked it when driving through because you have to be very alert on account of the road work in progress, but the brick building going up on Route 45 at Carrier Mills will be the home of the Carrier Mills Social Brethren church. The Rev. Elmer Grisham of Harrisburg is pastor.

This is going to be a very fine church building and nearly all of the work has been done by volunteers.

IF YOU HAD one of these things around, you really could get onto the cats for stomping so loudly as they walked across the carpet.

The Engineering News-Record reports that a sound-detection unit has been developed that is so sensitive it is said to detect termite footsteps and the clicking of the insects' jaws. The magazine reports that the sound device could eliminate destructive bore-and-chisel probing now necessary to find the insects.

THEY'RE bringing out the practical aspects to their religion out at Indian Camp church Thursday.

From 10 to 9 p. m. that day, in the church basement, there will be a household shower for Jimmy and Anna Killman, whose house and its contents were destroyed by fire a week ago today.

Rabies Vaccination Clinic Thursday

Harrisburg's new veterinarian will administer the shots to dogs at the Humane society sponsored rabies vaccination clinic from 5 to 7:30 p. m. Thursday at the shelter near the fairgrounds.

He is Dr. William Prusaczky, who recently started his practice here at 608 North Main street.

At the mass vaccinations the shots are given for $1.50. The society urges all dog owners who have not done so to have their animals vaccinated as the state law provides that all should have been inoculated against rabies by June 1.

Col. Monzon is Named Head in Bloodless Coup

New Chief Ousts Communists; to Deal with Rebels

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (UP)—The fourth government in 36 hours took over Guatemala in a bloodless coup today and immediately expressed willingness to deal freely with anti-Communist rebels led by Col. Carlos Castillo Armas.

Col. Elfigo Monzon, a former non-party minister without portfolio in the fallen government of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman, emerged as the Guatemalan leader after a hectic night of shuffling of powers.

He succeeds as head of a new military junta Col. Carlos Enrique Diaz.

Diaz first set up a government with himself as president, after the resignation of President Arbenz.

Late Monday Diaz formed a three-man junta in an effort to retain his power, which promptly was challenged by Colonel Castillo's rebels.

The collapse of Diaz came at 4:30 a. m. today when Monzon, who had been third man in the short-lived junta, took over in a bloodless coup.

Thus Guatemala saw four governments within 36 hours.

Monzon promptly lifted all censorship in the country. He freed the political prisoners of President Arbenz' regime. He ousted all Communists from office and sent them scurrying for cover—some into political asylum and others into hiding.

Then he announced his intention to deal with the rebel forces in bringing about a cease fire in the nation's 11-day-old revolution. It was believed here that the result will be the restoration of a stable government and normal conditions within Guatemala within a short time.

It was Diaz' refusal to deal with the rebels and his announced determination to continue the fighting that brought the downfall of his regime.

Colonel Castillo accused him of retaining in his government many of the Guatemalan Communists and of acting in bad faith.

Diaz was given an ultimatum by Castillo to purge his regime of all Communists, place them under arrest and make contact with rebel headquarters to discuss terms before 8 a. m. Monday.

Diaz belatedly outlived the Communist party, which earlier had endorsed his new regime. But he did not make contact with Castillo's headquarters, and the Reds were not placed under arrest.

Castillo then made good on his threat to attack the capital by air if his terms were not met.

The bloodless coup which toppled Diaz came a few hours after rebel planes bombed and strafed Guatemala City.

The declaration by Monzon that he would negotiate with the rebels was expected to result in an early halt to the fighting.

This was further indicated by the absence of further rebel activity following the fall of Diaz and the absence of military communiqués from either side, indicating that ground activity also was at a standstill.

Plan Emergency Drive for Funds To Combat Polio

NEW YORK (UP)—A record total of 3,644 cases of polio have been reported in the United States so far this year, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said Monday.

The states with the highest numbers of cases—in proportion to their populations—are Florida, Texas, Nevada, California and Montana, the foundation said.

Basil O'Connor, foundation president, said the upsurge in polio cases has placed a heavy strain on funds to fight the disease. He announced an emergency drive to replace "fast dwindling" foundation resources.

More than four million dollars was distributed to local chapters during the first six months of 1954, he said. A total of $900,000 in emergency aid has been sent out in June alone.

O'Connor said the emergency drive of the March of Dimes will be held from Aug. 16 through 31 in an effort to raise 20 million dollars for this year's program. In addition to aiding new polio sufferers, he said, the foundation still is aiding 67,000 patients from previous years.

Annual SEIEC Meeting Will be Held at Eldorado August 12-13

Talent and Beauty Contest Scheduled For Family Members

The Southern Illinois Electric co-operative has worked out a most unusual annual meeting to be held at the co-op's Eldorado headquarters August 12 and 13.

Besides the business meeting which will include the election of three members of the board of trustees, there will be a talent contest and beauty contest for members of families served with electric power by the SEIEC, the General Electric House of Magic, numbers by TV's Lucky Leroy and safety demonstrations. Jim Bolen of West-Top will be master of ceremonies.

There are 11 members of the board of trustees from eight southern Illinois counties and the territories of Gilbert Galloway of Franklin county, Thurman White of Williamson county and Escot Oxford of Hardin county expire this year. Just prior to the annual meeting a nominating committee appointed by the trustees will nominate three members to fill these vacancies. Additional nominations may be made prior to the annual meeting by the petition of any 15 or more members or any member may make nominations from the floor at the annual meeting.

Holdover trustees are George Aydelott and Clarence Sutton of Saline, Ray Webb of Johnson, W. E. Hunt of Hamilton, W. L. Bradley and H. H. Barlow of Gallatin and Loyd Pickard of Franklin.

I. N. Clemens of Pope, the other member, died several days ago and the board will name a member to serve for the remainder of his term.

The events will be held in an auditorium tent that will be erected on the grounds. Electrical merchandise will be displayed in the garage building and Eldorado civic groups will serve meals and drinks. Everything will be free except eats and drinks and the public is invited to attend the entertainment features.

The event will start at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, Aug. 12 with the talent contest. Bolen will auction contestants before hand and reduce the number to about an hour of talent. Local prizes of $35 for first, $20 for second and $10 for third will be given with the winner eligible for a state contest.

Following will be House of Magic, with unusual demonstrations with electricity, safety demonstrations and Lucky Leroy.

Registration for the annual meeting will begin around 9 a. m. Friday, Aug. 13, with the business meeting between 10 a. m. and noon. There will be entertainment in the afternoon, featuring the beauty contest, House of Magic and winners of the talent show.

The beauty contests must be unmarried girls between 16 and 22 and be members of a family residing in a home served with REA power. Besides three local prizes the winner will represent the SEIEC in the state beauty finals at the state convention Sept. 23.

The restricted driving permits were developed to avoid denying use of automobiles to persons over 70 failing regular driver's license examinations.

The permits limit the use of cars by the holders to certain roads at certain times of the day.

Carpentier defended his policy of requiring the over-70 age group to take examinations when they apply for renewal of their driver's licenses.

Later the bride and groom and a small group of friends and relatives celebrated with champagne. Then the couple took off on a honeymoon through Grand Canyon and Bryce Canyon.

New Pacific Command For Air Force

Headquarters Of Unified Group Will be In Hawaii

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Air Force will set up a new command in the Pacific next month to strengthen its ability to cope with any emergency in the Far East.

The command, part of Adm. Felix Stump's unified Pacific Theater Command, apparently is being set up in preparation for planned redeployment of forces now concentrated in the Japan-Korea area. The action also coincides with the announced movement of Strategic Air Command bomber units from the United States to Pacific bases for rotational training.

Air Secretary Harold E. Talbot has named Maj. Gen. Sory Smith to run the new organization which will be called the Pacific Air Force and will headquarter at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii. Smith has been Air Force director of information for the past four years and served on the staff of the late Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg in the 9th Air Force in World War II.

The Pacific Air Force will have two main jobs: Helping to prepare joint emergency war plans at Stump's Pearl Harbor headquarters and running the far-flung Pacific air supply and communication lines.

It will take over a vast group of Pacific air bases now operated by several units, particularly those of the Military Air Transport Service which will be freed for its main task of flying military personnel and supplies.

The new command will support combat units of the Far East Air Forces, Strategic Air Command units training in the Pacific and MATS trans-Pacific airline operations.

It is not expected to operate tactical air units other than certain air defense squadrons. The Air Force apparently intends to keep its combat units in the Pacific under the Far East Air Forces, commanded from Japan by Gen. Earle E. Partridge.

Some of Partridge's units, now comprising 20 wings or more than 17 per cent of the whole Air Force, are to be redeployed from their Korea-Japan locations during the year starting July 1, according to congressional testimony.

They presumably are to be deployed at Pacific bases more favorably located to deal with any emergency in Southeast Asia or along the rim of Red China.

Ban Unnecessary Use of Water

With the local water supply diminishing and pressures being reduced, especially during the early evening hours, the city of Harrisburg today placed a ban on unnecessary water uses.

The announcement is carried in an advertisement in today's Daily Register.

Amos Doom, city water superintendent, said that about six weeks of water is in the reservoir, and that the water level in Blue Lake has fallen to such an extent that its intake pipe must be lowered.

He also said that since 6 a. m. Sunday, all the water that has been pumped into the city has been from the reservoir, due to pumping difficulties at the Sloan street pumping station. A larger pump was being installed today.

For about the past six weeks between 300,000 and 400,000 gallons of water per day has been taken from the reservoir, the remainder of the gallonage from Blue Lake. This was done because the pumps could not bring all the necessary water in from Blue Lake.

McCormick Funeral Wednesday 9 a. m.

Palbearers for the Arthur (Squint) McCormick funeral which will be Wednesday at 9 a. m. at St. Mary's church, will be William Griffith, Chris Church, John Dooly, Emery Randolph, Cletus Ewell and Bill Gulley.

Each new officer present made a brief speech, pledging support in the club's program for the coming year.

Mr. Malan then presented the outgoing president, D. H. Hiller, with the past president's pin centered with a diamond.

At the conclusion of the program, club members, their wives and children present visited and enjoyed informal recreation at the lake side.

Fire Damages Building

A garage, coal shed and chicken pen were badly damaged this morning by fire that killed a few chickens and ducks at the rear of 500 East Locust street. The fire truck made the run at 10:30 a. m. Cause of the fire was not determined.

GOP Farm Leader Accuses Benson of Favoring Low Prices; Hits Pressure

WASHINGTON (UP)—A GOP farm leader today charged the administration with waging a "high pressure campaign" to put over its farm program and accused Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson of favoring lower farm prices.

Rep. Harold O. Love (R-S.D.), a member of the House Agriculture Committee, fired the charges after Benson and Vice President Richard M. Nixon made a nationwide radio appeal for the administration's flexible price support plan.

"I have never seen such a high pressure campaign in all my life," Love told a reporter.

"If lower prices as advocated by the secretary would wipe out surpluses, decrease production and increase farmers' income, then the early 1930s would have been a paradise," he said. "But we know this is not true."

The House is expected to vote Thursday or Friday on a "catch all" farm bill that would extend the present rigid high price supports on five basic crops through 1955. The administration wants to switch to a flexible and lower price support plan next year.

Nixon, appearing with Benson in a 25-minute broadcast over the ABC network Monday night, declared it would be the "height of irresponsibility" to extend the present support program. And Benson said "no new legislation at all" would be better than an extension of the present program which he blames for record-breaking farm surpluses.

The House Agriculture Committee, which approved extension of the high price props, demanded and received equal time to reply to the Nixon-Benson broadcast. The reply will be made Wednesday by Reps. Clifford R. Hope (R-Kan.), chairman, and Harold D. Cooley (D-N.C.), ranking Democrat, of the committee.

Hope declined to comment on Nixon's remarks. But he defended the committee bill as "far sounder than the program described by the secretary."

Love said he was "reasonably certain" the House would override the administration and approve the high support extension plan. He blamed the surplus problem on this nation's foreign policy which he said had permitted foreign-produced grains — notably oats, barley and rye — to flood domestic markets.

Nixon said the present support program is a holdover from World War II which has resulted in "bursting" surpluses. He said the program is "unfair to both farmers and taxpayers," is "undermining all of agriculture," and is as "out of place today as ration coupons."

He strongly implied that Mr. Eisenhower would veto legislation extending the present program. For the past several years, Nixon said, "we've been extending these high rigid supports for 'just one or two more years'."

"We're in this mess because we've refused to face the facts," he declared.

Favors 90 Per Cent Parity

Under the bill before the House, prices of wheat, corn, cotton, peanuts and rice would continue to be supported at 90 per cent of "fair price" parity for another year. The administration program of flexible props would permit the son to vary the support level between 75 and 90 per cent of parity in line with supplies.

Republican House leaders hope to reverse the Agriculture Committee action when the measure comes up for debate. They are counting on the support of big city Democrats to defeat the farm bloc coalition of Southern Democrats and Midwest Republicans.

Appealing for public support for the administration position, Nixon said he is "confident" that the American people "through their representatives in Congress" will show the "courage" that President Eisenhower has in attempting solution of the farm problem during an election year, and that the "President's program will be approved."

She was arrested a few days ago by county and state officers near the Saxton mine on Route 45 south of Carrier Mills in the company of Roy Thaxton, Ralph Hill and Hazel Kerley.

Several witnesses appeared at the hearing on the petition, in which State's Attorney Glen O. Jones represented the state and Atty. Trafton Dennis represented the woman.

Thaxton has been charged with driving while intoxicated and illegal transportation of liquor, Hill with vagrancy and contributing to the dependency of his children and the Kerley woman, from Hermin, was released after paying a fine for intoxication. She had received a broken arm during a playful scuffle with Frances.

All four and two others, Teresa Morse and Harold Parks, also charged with violating their probations, were arraigned before Choesser yesterday morning.

Thaxton pleaded innocent and his bond was set at $1,000, returnable the first Monday in July. Hill also pleaded innocent and he, too, was placed under $1,000 bond, returnable the same date. Both were returned to the Saline county jail in lieu of bond. Frances Todd asked for a hearing, which was held yesterday afternoon.

Teresa Morse and Parks, picked up together at Teresa's place near Carrier Mills, both asked for hearings on the petitions to revoke their probations and the hearings were set for July 26.

The U. S. Steel Corp. and five other top producers employing some 370,000 steelworkers were scheduled to line up for formal contract signing this afternoon.

The ceremonies will follow approval of the settlement by the USW's 170-man wage-policy board which was to stamp final okays on the agreement at 2 p. m.

U. S. Steel, the nation's No. 1 producer and formulator of the industry-wide contract terms, already has signed contract memorandums along with Bethlehem, Republic, Jones & Laughlin, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and Inland Steel companies.

The agreement, hammered out in its final details with "Big steel" Monday night, provides, in addition to the wage increase, improved hospitalization insurance benefits to cost about 2 cents an hour per man. Better pension agreements in the settlement will vary in cost with the individual companies.

About 70 other companies having basic steel contracts with the union were expected to work out similar agreements quickly with the 1,200,000-member USW.

The new contract can be opened for wages only next year. The pension and insurance provisions will go into effect Nov. 1 with the insurance program frozen for two years and the pension package for three.

Statement is Issued After Ending Talks

Stress Atomic Knowledge Should Be Used for Peace

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill today called for a "general and drastic reduction" of world armament designed to apply atomic knowledge to human betterment rather than destruction.

The President and the 79-year-old prime minister issued a philosophical statement of the Anglo-American approach to the problem of halting Communism, but avoided specific reference to such international hot spots as Indochina.

Their "agreed declaration" was issued by the White House about an hour after they had concluded a series of talks which began last Friday.

The two leaders said they felt "the cause of world peace would be advanced by general and drastic reduction under effective safeguards of world armaments of all classes and kinds."

"It will be our persevering resolve to promote conditions in which the prodigious nuclear forces now in human hands can be used to enrich and not to destroy mankind."

They urged "the establishment and maintenance of such associations of appropriate nations as will best, in their respective regions, preserve the peace and the independence of the peoples living there."

"When desired by the peoples of the affected countries, we are ready to render appropriate and feasible assistance to such associations," the declaration said.

Ignores Southeast Asia

This section did not refer specifically to Southeast Asia.

Monday, however, the President and the head of the British government issued a joint statement in which they promised to "press forward" with plans for collective defense in Southeast Asia.

Churchill, preparing to fly to Ottawa this afternoon, called on Mr. Eisenhower at 9:30 a. m. CST. They were joined a few minutes later by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and the British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Churchill left the White House talks at 10:15 a. m. and the President helped him to his limousine where they said goodbye and wished each other luck.

After the Anglo-American working staffs approved the final communique and periods of the "agreed declaration," the short—unexpectedly short—document was issued at 11:30 a. m.

At the outset of the historic document, the President and the prime minister said they had met "in intimate comradeship." They promised to continue united efforts for world peace within the outline of the Atlantic charter which they reaffirmed.

PROBLEM OF JAPAN

Editorial By BRUCE BLOSSAT

It was no accident that President Eisenhower singled out Japan's economic plight in a recent off-the-cuff speech. The Japanese are getting close to the ragged edge.

The President put the matter bluntly when he said Japan will fall to the Communists if the United States denies that country aid and opportunities for trade. In that eventuality, he emphasized, the Pacific Ocean would become a "Communist lake."

As everyone knows, before World War II Japan had a vast trading empire in China, Southeast Asia, and other areas of the world. The Japs drew in raw materials and sent out finished manufactures.

Today China, under Communist heel, is largely closed to Japanese traders. Barriers of resentment, raised by Jap depredations in wartime, remain high in Southeast Asia, though there is some hope for better relations there. As for America, tariff walls and changing tastes and habits have robbed Japan of many old outlets for goods.

The bitter day of reckoning was put off first by direct American financial aid and then by the indirect benefits flowing from our use of Japan as a staging base in the Korean war. There is still some hangover from this effort, but the advantage is dwindling fast.

Some might say: "Well, Japan lost the war. Why shouldn't it suffer?" But such an attitude would reflect only the greatest shortsightedness on our part. Japan seems to have made a genuine conversion to democracy and the ways of freedom. It still has the greatest industrial potential in the Orient, and as such is a crucial prize. For us and all the West, it is a bulwark against communism.

These are the considerations which must rule when we decide what to do about Japan.

At the very least, we must strive to work out arrangements for the security of Southeast Asia, both for the safety of the immediate countries involved and for the sake of preserving as free an area which can perhaps be drawn gradually into a healthy economic relationship with Japan.

But obviously it is the view of the President and others of his official family that we must go beyond this and make tariff concessions which will allow Japan to do more business in America. Like Britain, Japan must trade or die. We cannot expect it to remain our good and true friend for long if we deny to it the means of life.

It would be pleasant if Japan were already on its feet. But it is not. As in so much of our affairs today, we have only a choice among prospects of varying degrees of unpleasantness. We can all readily understand why the President thinks in this case that by all odds the most unpleasant would be to have Japan go Communist.

Democrats Hit 'Mess' in GOP Administration

Speakers at State Convention Plug 'Time for A Change'

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois Democrats from Adlai E. Stevenson on down today plugged away at the theme "there's a mess" in the Republican administration and "it's time for a change."

The two phrases, prominent in the successful GOP campaign of 1952, were echoed by several speakers Monday at the Democratic State Convention and at a $20-a-plate dinner which followed.

Stevenson said there is an "accelerating disintegration" of the national administration, and in Illinois the state administration "has sunk into the morass of mediocrity to which it was destined."

The former governor, unsuccessful 1952 presidential candidate, said the nation's "greatest surplus" soon will be the "perishable campaign promises" made by the Republicans two years ago.

"Never have so many been promised so much and waited so long for so little," Stevenson told the party dinner.

"Make Up the Deficit"

Stevenson called upon Democrats to "make this administration succeed, because it is the only administration we have."

"If the party in power seems to be so hopelessly torn and divided within itself that it cannot govern, it is up to the opposition party to do what can be done to make up the deficit of leadership," he said.

The ex-governor said one "answer" to the problem is electing officials "committed to wise and responsible principles and policies, and that can mean only one thing—Democrats."

Other convention and dinner speakers included Oklahoma Sen. Mike Monroney; Illinois Sen. Paul Douglas; ex-Sen. Scott W. Lucas and David F. Mallett, candidate for state treasurer, and Mark A. Peterman, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction.

Says Illinois GOP Courts Ike

Monroney, delivering the main dinner talk, said Illinois Republicans have tried "to make out a 'great love' for President Eisenhower in an attempt to get 'his blessing' when he comes here Aug. 19 during the State Fair."

"But unless he is willing to do a sword swallowing act, I doubt if he will be booby trapped and pressured into endorsing a political outfit that opposes everything he stands for," Monroney said.

"They didn't like Roosevelt, they didn't like Truman, and now they don't like Ike and Ike knows it," he said.

Monroney charged the GOP has "a guilt complex for campaign promises broken every hour on the hour" and termed the party "a fugitive from their psychiatrist."

Urges Election of Democrats

Douglas said voters should elect a Democratic Congress to assure passage of "all that is decent" in the Eisenhower program. He said Democrats are "saving" the President on "crucial issues" in his program which are opposed by "virtually the whole Republican Party."

Lucas delivered an attack on Sen. Joseph W. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and his methods.

"The time has come when it isn't a question of McCarthy versus communism," the former Senate majority leader said. "It's a question of McCarthyism versus the Constitution of the United States."

The convention did not adopt a platform, but named a 10-member committee to draft one for submission to a later meeting in Chicago, sometime in September.

Main business of the convention was nomination of three candidates for University of Illinois trustees: Wirt Herrick, Clinton, Mrs. Franck B. Watkins, Chicago, and Kenney Williamson, Peoria. Herrick and Mrs. Watkins are incumbents and Williamson is a former trustee.

DREW PEARSON Says:
Churchill Has Right-About-Faced On Russia; He Was Vigorous Opponent Of Russia During War; Today He Leans Toward Russian Appeasement.

WASHINGTON. — It was exactly a quarter century ago that the first prime minister of England came to visit the United States, sat on a log over the Rapidan river in Virginia and conferred with President Hoover. Things have changed quite a bit since then. Hoover and Ramsay MacDonald, England's first Labor prime minister, had nothing much to worry about except the size of naval cruisers. England dominated the world in those days. We had little to say about it, and the British prime minister made quite a concession in coming to America. His trip was an acknowledgment, however, of our growing power, at least in the field of naval and financial affairs.

It took him, incidentally, a week to get here by boat. Lindbergh had flown the Atlantic only two years before the Rapidan conference, so it wasn't considered quite safe for prime ministers to come by air. Since then, Prime Minister Churchill has crossed the Atlantic seven times for conferences, most of the time by overnight plane. So in 25 short years things have changed.

Churchill's Russian Change — Things have changed a lot even in the ten short years since Churchill used to come here in the war years. In London recently, Churchill has been saying privately that Foreign Minister Molotov is one of the great statesmen of Europe. And Foreign Minister Eden last week even said nice things about Molotov publicly in the House of Commons. That's quite a change. Simultaneously, Eden did not say nice things about Secretary of State Dulles. He ignored him. That's a serious change. How great a change it can be gathered by Churchill's views on the same Molotov and the same Russia only ten short years ago. He was then at sharp variance with F. D. Roosevelt, who then hoped we might get along with Russia, might work out world peace together. Now it's Churchill who thinks we can get along with Russia. That's how drastically things have changed.

Churchill's War Strategy — A lot of people have forgotten Churchill's viewpoint in those war years. But biggest haggling point among the allies was the second front across the English channel. The same Molotov came to Washington and London in the summer of 1942, where it was agreed that the second front was the quickest way to end the war. Churchill and Molotov even signed a nonaggression pact agreeing on the Curzon Line drawn across Poland and between Germany and Russia. The U. S. refused to sign because we didn't want Poland split up, thought it should be an independent state. But after agreeing on the second front, the bickering began. Churchill didn't want the second front, kept postponing it, wanted to wear the Germans out in North Africa, Italy, the Balkans. The argument became so bitter that there were times when Stalin threatened to get out of the war. Finally at the Quebec conference in the summer of 1943 the second front was postponed once again, and knowing that Stalin would be rip-roaring mad, Churchill was told by FDR that he would have to go to Moscow himself to pacify him. He went.

Joe Rebuffs Winnie — Just before he got there a shipment of American war supplies to Murmansk was waylaid off the Norwegian coast by German subs, and about 75 out of 100 American ships were sunk. Stalin had been counting on these supplies for the Battle of Stalingrad. All this made Stalin so sore that for three days he refused to see the prime minister of England. For three days, Churchill cooled his heels. Finally an appointment was arranged, and the night before the prime minister got slightly tight. Expounding to his staff after dinner, Churchill pounded the table and outlined point by point what he planned to tell Stalin the next day. In brief, he planned to give Stalin hell. Next day at noon, Churchill finally saw Stalin. But Stalin did all the talking. Point by point he took up the issues Churchill had listed the night before, answered them before Churchill could raise them. Obviously he had had Churchill's room wired for sound.

Dinner With Stalin — That first meeting was not pleasant. So afterward Churchill asked for a second meeting, but got the run-around. Each time he asked for an appointment word came back that Stalin was walking in the garden. Finally it was Churchill's turn to get sore. He announced that he was returning to London. Only then did Stalin invite him to his apartment, where his redheaded daughter served dinner, and the two men, thanks to plentiful vodka, made up and parted good friends. But later things changed.

Concealed Surrender Offer — Bitterness between Churchill and the Russians got worse as the war dragged on. It reached an explosive climax as the German armies started retreating through Yugoslavia in late 1944, at which time eight German officers asked for a conference with Yugoslav leader Mikhailovich. They proposed surrender. The war was over as far as the German leaders were concerned, and they saw no reason to continue the bloodshed. This was in October, 1944, six months before the war ended in May, 1945. Mikhailovich replied that surrender was beyond his authority and turned them over to his American liaison officer, who forwarded the proposal to Lord Alexander, British theater commander in Italy. But nothing happened. Either Churchill or Lord Alexander failed to pass the surrender offer on to Washington. Several months later, after the Russian armies had battled the German armies up through the Balkans, Moscow learned from captured German prisoners and Mikhailovich of the earlier German offer to surrender.

Stalin Exploded — This was when Stalin sent the bitterest note of the entire war to Roosevelt. He suspected the Allies of deliberately prolonging the war in order to increase casualties for the Russian army. He suspected that Churchill wanted to deal with a weak Russia after the war. It was one of these bitter notes from Stalin that Roosevelt was answering on April 12 when he died. That was how Churchill felt about the Russians during the war. Roosevelt hoped that we could work with them for the world's future peace. Churchill scouted this idea, said there wasn't a chance. It will be up to historians to decide which is right. The only point this reporter is reporting is that with Churchill now claiming we must work with Russia for the peace of the world — things have certainly changed.

St. Louis Attorney Is Named to FPC

WASHINGTON AP—President Eisenhower today nominated Frederick Stueck, St. Louis attorney, to the Federal Power Commission, replacing Dale E. Doty, whose term expired.

Stueck, 48-year-old Republican and former executive secretary to ex-Gov. Forrest Donnelly of Missouri, was named to a five-year term.

Mr. Eisenhower also nominated William H. Brett of Alliance, Ohio, as director of the U. S. Mint. Brett is a manufacturer of kitchen equipment and has served as a treasury consultant for several years.

Mrs. Helen Chapman of Jerseyville, Ill., president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, was nominated as a member of the public advisory board of the Foreign Operations Administration.

Farmer is Killed In Truck Crash

NASHVILLE, Ill. AP—Jake L. Zapp, about 80, a farmer who lived near Beaucoup, was killed instantly today when he drove his pickup truck in front of a heavy truck on Ill. 15 six miles east of here.

Two men riding on the back of Zapp's truck escaped serious injury and Paul Harr, Carbondale, driver of the other truck, was not injured.

Hits Commercial Broadcasts of Congress Hearings

WASHINGTON AP—Sen. Wallace F. Bennett said today that commercial broadcasts of congressional hearings would "prostitute the legislative process" and expose senators to new political and commercial "pressures."

Bennett made the statement in testimony prepared for a Senate Rules subcommittee hearing. He spoke in support of a proposal to outlaw commercial sponsorship of congressional hearings on radio and TV. He said he has serious doubts "about such programs" under any circumstances.

In another prepared statement, Sen. Guy M. Gillette (D-Iowa) urged approval of a proposal which would require authorization—and then a subsequent grant of funds—to start a Senate investigation. At present, both steps are taken at once.

Bennett (R-Utah) said "I cannot but feel that sale of Senate proceedings is a prostitution of the legislative process. Surely the founding fathers would stand aghast."

He said commercial backing of radio and TV coverage of hearings could be a "subtle but powerful" way of "propagandizing" legislation attractive to a sponsor. He said a sponsor could offer an attractive political "build-up" to an ambitious senator or a senator could set up an investigation to suit a sponsor.

As another "danger" Bennett said commercial sponsorship of such broadcasts would offer a new means by which corporate funds could be used for political purposes and still evade the present law. He said such commercialism is a "threat to the integrity of the Senate."

A delegation of about 15 soft coal operators, 9 members of Congress, Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks and several other government officials conferred with the President.

They presented him with a detailed statement outlining problems in the industry, including a 30 per cent drop in coal consumption, together with a suggested program to alleviate the industry's economic crisis.

One industry member said he understood that the President asked Weeks to submit a list of names for the special study committee within 48 hours.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) said the group asked Mr. Eisenhower for government aid in seeking "a fairer competitive basis" for coal with gas. He said they also pressed for federal policies to limit freight rates on coal.

They agreed to offer a modified version of a previous modified plan to give everybody an income tax cut through higher personal exemptions. The Democrats will go to the mat for a $100 boost in the present $600 exemption to take effect next year. Originally, George had plugged for a $200 boost effective this year but later trimmed the proposal to a $100 hike this year.

Truman Shows Signs of Old Fire
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The condition of former President Truman has "greatly improved" today and the patient showed signs of his old fire by commenting "Well, Doctor, I'm over the hump this morning."

Mr. Truman's physician, Dr. Wallace Graham, told a news conference at Research hospital that he was "very optimistic" about the former President's condition.

"He was certainly himself this morning," Graham said.

Whether this particular paragraph pointed to a relaxation of the American stand against trade with Red China remained to be interpreted either by executive statement or official action. Mr. Eisenhower will have a news conference Wednesday morning and may be able to elaborate on that point.

The prime minister and President ended their visit with farewells as casual as those of any friendly weekend guest and host.

Apparently the "agreed declaration" was written in tentative form Monday and the meeting today was largely to give final approval to the wording, which was being chosen with extreme care.

Republican and Democratic Leaders Urge House to Vote Foreign Aid Program

Both Republican and Democratic leaders urged the House today to approve President Eisenhower's $3,470,608,000 foreign aid program.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. said approval is necessary to prove to the world "that we are not wincing in the light to stop communism."

Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn (Tex.) also urged approval of the foreign aid bill. But he took the occasion to lash at Vice President Richard M. Nixon for blamng — in a Milwaukee speech Saturday — all of the administration's foreign woes on the Democrats.

Rayburn said he trusted that in the future "leaders of the Republican Party such as the vice president will be a little more careful" and stop saying "inane things approaching insanity of a type."

Eisenhower to Appoint Group On Coal Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower told representatives of the soft coal industry today he is prepared to appoint a special government committee to study critical problems confronting the industry.

A delegation of about 15 soft coal operators, 9 members of Congress, Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks and several other government officials conferred with the President.

They presented him with a detailed statement outlining problems in the industry, including a 30 per cent drop in coal consumption, together with a suggested program to alleviate the industry's economic crisis.

Rio Grande's Worst Flood Kills 6 Persons

By United Press

The Rio Grande's worst flood in history rolled towards Laredo, Tex., today and the worst heat wave of the season baked the South.

The rampaging Rio Grande, swollen by rains measuring up to 12 inches in tributary areas, has already killed six persons. Another died of a heart attack induced by flood conditions and nine persons were missing at Ozona, on a tributary river.

Seven towns in Texas and Mexico were flooded and more than 1,000 persons were forced from their homes.

The flood waters were expected to hit the twin cities of Laredo and Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, with a crest of between 55 and 60 feet today or early Wednesday.

Only last year the mighty river ran bone dry between the two cities.

Meanwhile the heat wave blanketed central states in the Southeast and in the desert Southwest.

Gila Bend, Ariz., was the nation's hot spot with a 108 reading Monday. A June record was broken at Memphis, Tenn., when the mercury climbed to 104.

Elsewhere in Dixie, it was 103 at Jacksonville, Fla., and 102 at Birmingham, Ala. Kansas City, Mo., reported 101, Yuma, Ariz., 106 and Dalhart, Tex., 105.

Heavy rains swept part of the Midwest and an unconfirmed tornado caused minor damage on three farms in the Sioux Rapids, Iowa, area. In Idaho and Montana temperatures fell to the 50s and 60s as cool air surged in from the Pacific.

Propose Federal Agency to Deal With Delinquency

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some 400 delegates to a nation conference on juvenile delinquency today talked over ways of checking the rapid increase in youngsters who get in trouble with the law.

The suggestions ranged from stimulating local action on the juvenile delinquency problem to establishment of a $1,200,000-a-year federal project to help cope with it.

Herman G. Stark, director of the California Youth Authority, proposed a government project, backed by at least $1,200,000 annually for 10 years, to coordinate and guide work in the delinquency field. He said a single agency should handle the job.

The Federal Children's Bureau already has asked Congress to set up a special Juvenile Delinquency Division, but requested a more modest sum, $165,000.

Stark said government leadership is needed to meet a "serious problem" of thousands of transient children in the country. Many of them are pushed from city to city and state to state because no one accepts responsibility for them, he said.

Sherwood Norman, director of detention services for the National Probation and Parole Association, declared that the federal government and all but a few states have failed to accept responsibility for thousands of children held in jail or sub-standard detention homes.

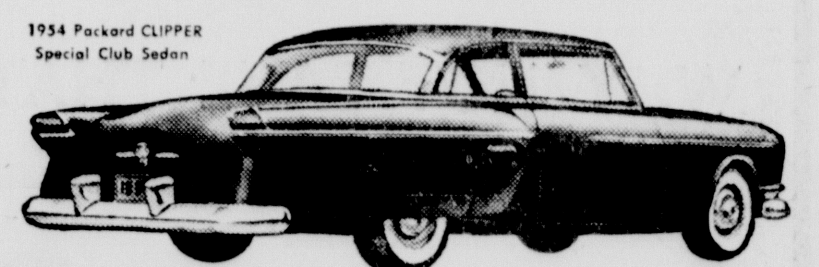

He called placing children in such surroundings a "national disgrace," and suggested state subsidies for good detention homes.

Dave Norton, Former Big Ten High Jump Champion, to Coach at Galatia

Dave Norton, Big Ten high jump champion in 1951, has signed a contract to direct the athletic program at Galatia high school this coming school year, officials there announced yesterday. He will coach basketball and other sports and teach some science courses.

Norton replaces Bob Farris who resigned last month.

The new Galatia mentor is well known throughout the midwest for his ability as a high jumper. As a member of Indiana university's Big Ten track and field championship squad of 1951, Norton took honors with a jump of 6'6".

The 25-year-old jump expert has participated in some of the midwest's top relays at Drake, Milwaukee and Cleveland, placing high in all. He finished first two straight years at the Milwaukee relays. His best unofficial high jump record is 6'8".

Norton was graduated from Indiana university in 1951.

During the 1933-34 school year, Norton taught and coached at Tamaroa high school. His team won 19 of 23 games and captured the Woodlawn tournament. Prior to his year at Tamaroa, Norton was assistant football coach and assistant basketball coach at Tamaroa.

A native of Petersburg, Ind., he is married to a former Du Quoin girl.

Cokes, Shells Lose First Games in Kiwanis Play

Molinaro was the winner of the Shells-Athletic House game, and Powell was the loser. Molinaro held the usually hard-hitting Shells to only three hits and Powell and Howton were hammered for 10 hits by the Athletic House. Dardeen had three for three for the winners.

In other games in league play the Triple A's defeated the NYC Sunrises Park team, 29-3, and Pankey's Bakers were defeated by Pickford's Flowers, 17-4. Wilson was the winner in the first game and Bolerjack the loser. In the final game Donnie Pickford was the winner and Dunning the loser.

Dodgers, Giants Begin Series in Battle for Lead

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

The Giants and Dodgers, always on each other's back for no special reason, will be at each other's throat the next three days for mid-season custody of the National League lead.

Although the pennant doesn't actually hinge on their three-game series which opens tonight, both managers are acting like it does.

Leo Durocher, bent upon increasing the Giants' one-game lead over the Brooklynites, will lead with pressure-tested Sal Maglie, an old Dodger nemesis.

"My first choice is Maglie," Durocher said on the 11th hour, "but if I have to switch at the last minute, it'll be Jim Hearn."

Brooklyn skipper Walt Alston said that he would counter with Don Newcombe — "no matter what."

Realizing the Dodgers need to sweep all three games to wind up the series in first place, Alston said he'd send dependable Carl Erskine against the Giants Wednesday and probably Russ Meyer Thursday.

Durocher, however, kept mum about his pitching plans beyond tonight.

Almost as much interest as the games themselves was the perfect-to-person batting and fielding duel between Duke Snider, the league's leading hitter, and Willie Mays, the Giants' spectacular home run threat. Both are candidates for the starting center field job on the National League All-Star team.

"There has been so much argument over which one is better than the other," said Dodger owner W. Walter O'Malley, "that perhaps these three games can settle the matter at least at debate. We feel the Duke is one of the finest players in the league."

Giants Sold On Mays
That sentiment, of course, means a little to the Giants, who are equally convinced that Mays, as an all-around ball player, has few, if any, peers in the circuit.

In the American League, there wasn't as much excitement at the moment. Cleveland, still leading by 1½ games despite losing two out of three to New York, met sixth-place Baltimore tonight; the second-place White Sox had a twinnight twin bill with the Tigers; the Yankees faced the Red Sox in a night game and the Senators opposed the Athletics in an arc-light contest.

Other night games had the Phillies at Pittsburgh, the Cubs at Milwaukee and the Cardinals at Cincinnati.

Looking AT Sports

By ED KIRKPATRICK
With Bill Melton off to Michigan on vacation this week, we'll try to pinch-hit with the baseball chatter.

When you know more about the history of baseball it increases your enjoyment of the game—one of the reasons why The Daily Register presents this weekly quiz. Score yourself ten points for a correct first choice, five for a second, three for a third and one point for a fourth pick. Ready?

Answers to the baseball quiz will appear in tomorrow's issue of The Register.

Name Three to Represent U. S. in Davis Cup Play

NEW YORK — Straight Clark, Ham Richardson, and Hal Burrows—the nation's fifth, sixth, and 13th ranked players, respectively—will represent the United States against the British West Indies in the opening round of North American Zone eliminations of Davis Cup tennis play.

The U. S. Lawn Tennis Association also announced that the same trio, if successful in the first round, will comprise the U. S. team for the second round series against Cuba.

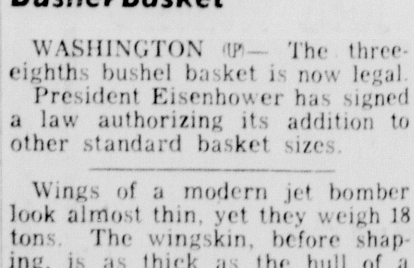

The series with the British West Indies will be held at the Tranquility Square Lawn Tennis Club, Port of Spain, Trinidad, July 14-15-16, and the series against Cuba at the St. Petersburg, Fla., Tennis Club, July 30-31 and Aug. 1. Each will be the standard Davis Cup best-three-of-five series, composed of four singles matches and one doubles match.

Paul Giel Loses His First Major League Tilt as Hatton Hits Grand-Slam Homer

By United Press

Paul Giel, the All America football player from Minnesota, was "mouse-trapped" in his professional baseball debut Monday night by Grady Hatton, a former University of Texas line-man.

Giel, signed by the Giants for an estimated $60,000 bonus earlier this month, received his first chance to pitch in an exhibition game against the Red Sox Monday night.

He led 2-1 until the sixth when he loaded the bases. Hatton then blasted a grand-slam homer into the upper right field stands and the Red Sox went on to win, 8-6.

Despite the loss, Giant Manager Leo Durocher said Giel had impressed him. "He surprised me with his fast ball," Durocher added. "I wouldn't be afraid to throw him in relief."

Several other youngsters received opportunities in exhibition games Monday night.

Mike Ryba, a Cincinnati highly regarded 25-year-old south paw, made his first start for the Reds and beat the Tigers, 6-2, while 20-year-old Tom Quarters, a bonus pitcher, made his first start for the Phillies and defeated the Athletics, 3-2, in a seven-inning game.

Eighteen-year-old Ralph Terry of Binghamton in the Eastern League won a 5-2 victory over the world champion Yankees, while Laurin Pepper, Pittsburgh's new bonus pitcher, made his debut against Cleveland in a game won by the Indians, 10-2.

Another 18-year-old, shortstop Ed Hersteck, played for the Giants against the Red Sox even though he was signed only a few hours before and was awaiting assignment to Mayfield, Ky., of the Class D Kitty League.

But perhaps 50-year-old Mike Ryba, the Cardinal coach who is known as "Old Folks," received the biggest kick of all. He pitched two innings against Rochester and was credited with the Cards' 3-2 victory over their farm hands.

Berra Widens Lead in Poll

CHICAGO — Yogi Berra, New York Yankee catcher, today widened his margin as the individual leader in the all-star baseball poll.

Berra overtook Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals Monday and steadily increased his lead to 5,347 votes.

Harvey Kuehn, Detroit Tigers moved ahead of Chico Carrasquel of the Chicago White Sox in the American League balloting for shortstop.

The annual all-star tilt will be played at Cleveland July 13.

The complete squads, to be directed by Casey Stengel of the Yankees and Walter Alston of the Dodgers, will be announced July 6.

LIL ABNER

By Al Capp

HE STORY: Since Ricky Madison, 16, started building a hot rod, his parents have desperately tried to get his interest into other channels. They are pleased when Ricky takes Sharon Bruce roller skating, but they are fearful when they read of teenage wrecks and injuries on the highway.

XIV
They reached Sharon's house. Suddenly Ricky straightened. "Your folks are up. There's a light in every room. And there's Arnie's prow! car!"
Sharon sat up and stared through the narrow windshield. "I wonder if anything... happened," she said worriedly. "Somebody might be sick or hurt. And I was gone all the time... Ricky, I'm scared."

When they walked across the porch, Ricky could see Sharon's folks, his own, and Arnie, all in the living room. At the sound of footsteps they all turned to look at the front door.
"Oh, golly," Ricky whispered. "They're waiting for us. Do I have any lipstick on me?"
"Probably," Sharon said. He licked his hand and rubbed it across his mouth, hoping for the best.

They weren't prepared for the reception that was waiting for them. Two mothers sprang forward, clasping their children in their arms.
"You're safe!" Sharon's mother said in an emotion-choked voice. Then she began to cry.
"It wasn't you... it wasn't you... Ricky's mother murmured, kissing him impulsively.
"Watch out, Mom," Ricky pulled away. "Now you probably got your lipstick all over me."
Everyone in the room stared at him, seeing for the first time the lipstick that was smeared over his face in half a dozen places. And then they laughed. The fathers and mothers, their laughter still echoing of tears. Arnie's bull-like bellow that threatened to shake off his huge belly, and even Sharon's helpless, ashamed laughter, all at the sight of Ricky's indignant, blushing, red-smeared face.
"Thank goodness!" Sharon's mother said, putting her hand on Ricky's arm. "I thought it was blood."

Quentin Reynolds Awarded $175,000 In Libel Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — A Federal Court jury today awarded author Quentin Reynolds $175,000 damages in his libel suit against Hearst columnist Westbrook Pegler.

The panel of eight men and four women announced its decision at 1 a. m. after deliberating 112 hours.

Named in the verdict were Pegler, the Hearst Corp., owner of King Features which syndicates Pegler's column, and Hearst Consolidated Publications Inc., owner of the New York Journal American which publishes the column here.
Pegler was directed to pay Reynolds $100,000; the Hearst Corp. to pay him $50,000, and Hearst Consolidated to pay him $25,000. The jury also awarded Reynolds $1 in compensatory damages.

The $175,000 in punitive damages was believed to be one of the largest libel awards ever made in the United States.

Reynolds had sued for $500,000, charging that a 1949 column by Pegler had defamed his courage and morals and impaired his ability to earn a living. The trial lasted seven weeks.

Reynolds, who was in the court room when the jury announced its verdict said he was "very happy" and asked newsmen, "How about that $1." His wife broke into tears.

Pegler had left the courtroom shortly after the jury retired. His attorney, Charles Henry, asked Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld for a 30-day stay of execution. Weinfeld granted a 20-day stay.

Heiress is Shot By Estranged Male at Track

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Steamship heiress Andrea Luckenbach Hammer, shot by her estranged husband at a horse race track here, fled her home in Lexington, Ky., four days ago to hide from him, it was disclosed today.

The 33-year old heiress to a 3 million dollar fortune, shot in the abdomen, right breast and left hand was reported in "good" condition at Delaware hospital where she was taken after the shooting Monday.

Frederick O. Hammer, 46, was held under $10,500 bail on charges of assault with intent to kill his wife and horse race owner and trainer Woodrow W. Long. Hammer also was charged with carrying a deadly weapon.

The wild shooting melee in the crowded paddock at the Delaware Park Race Track climaxed a string of marital troubles that began in 1949, two years after their marriage. In that year, she charged that Hammer beat her aboard their yacht on which she said he held her prisoner for eight days off the Florida coast.

She filed suit for divorce in Lexington last May and her attorney, Harry Miller Jr., said that he had planned to put her case on the docket there today.

Miller also disclosed that Mrs. Hammer told him Saturday she was leaving Lexington that day to hide from her estranged husband in the belief he was in Florida but might come to Lexington.

Hammer told police that he "went berserk and started shooting" when he saw his wife and Long at the race track Monday.

H. C. Byrd Wins Demo Nomination In Maryland Race

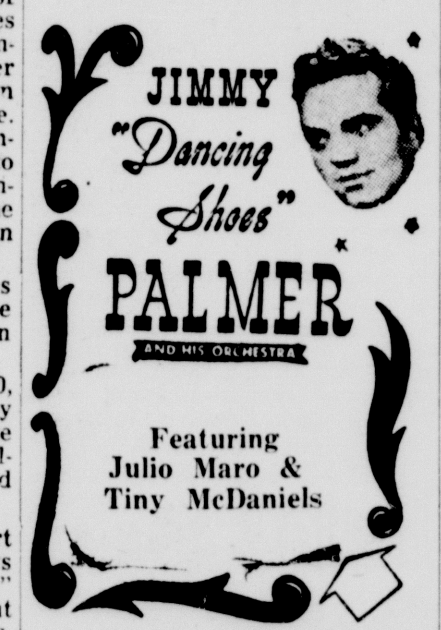

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Former university president H. C. Byrd appeared today to have beaten Baltimore contractor George P. Mahoney for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Maryland.
Late returns from Monday's primary showed that Byrd had won, or was leading with a good margin, in enough counties to roll up the necessary minimum of 77 county unit votes. He might get more.
In the popular vote, returns from 121 of the state's 1338 precincts gave Byrd 149,165 to Mahoney's 146,594.

The winner faces Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, easy victor in a four-way Republican race, in the November election.

All of Maryland's seven congressmen, four Republicans and three Democrats, won renomination.
